Allstate Insurance Company uses CDMP certification as employee incentive

Allstate Insurance Company, one of the nation's largest commercial and industrial insurer, has added the Certified Data Management Professional (CDMP) certification to its list of professional accreditations.

Allstate employees who successfully complete the requirements for attaining this prestigious certification will earn a substantial bonus and be compensated for exam expenses.

The CDMP designation is a new certification from the ICCP in partnership with DAMA (Data Administration Management Association). The CDMP is offered at Practitioner and Mastery levels.

The ICCP is a not-for-profit organization that has been testing computer programmers, systems analysts, I.T. Managers and systems developers since 1973.

Passing the examinations also allows an individual to simultaneously work towards a college degree in computing or business information systems.

For more information on the Certified Computing Professional (CCP) or CDMP designation and how to prepare to write its examinations, please visit www.iccp.org.
